Association Plans Banquet Meeting
This Month—1924 Harvest Festival Plans Discussed
Last Night

NO QUORUM THOUGH INTER-ESTING MEETING IS HELD

Tentative plans for a systematic advertising campaign were discussed at the meeting of the Merchants' Association at the Elks Home last night. Owing to the fact that only a small number of members present, the "Trade in Middlesboro" campaign was not discussed in detail.

It was decided to have a banquet at the next meeting which will take place some time this month and to have present an advertising expert who will outline to the local merchants the kind of advertising that will be effective for a town of this size. Special efforts will be made to have a large attendance at the meeting and for this reason the dinner is planned. The place for meeting has not been decided. The efficiency of the association as a business and civic organization has been impaired by the lack of attendance of the members, it was pointed out.

Local advertising conditions were discussed. The merchants praised the Daily News as an effective advertising medium and with the assistance of the advertising expert to outline the methods for advertising campaigns, they will depend on it more than ever, particularly to bring customers from the country.

The proposition for promoting a harvest festival again next year was discussed. It will be continued on a large scale next year. The buildings will be of a permanent nature, the booths being so constructed that they may be taken down and used each year, thus effecting a great saving in building. It will be impossible to have the fair on the lots which were used this year owing to the fact that the Christian church is planning to erect a building there and the West End ball park was discussed. A small admission will probably be charged to defray expenses.

A report of the expenditures for the recent festival was made. While there is still a deficit, it is thought that this will be made up when all the subscriptions are collected. All the members appeared to be pleased with the results of the festival and are determined to make the 1924 festival the biggest ever.

Members of the association today said that the success of the festival was due, in a large measure, to the untiring efforts of S. M. Ittams, president of the organization.

Not enough members were present to constitute a quorum, though an interesting meeting was held.

District Meeting at Pineville Represented by Nine Clubs—20 Local Women Present

Mrs. W. H. Worsham, of Corbin, was re-elected district governor of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at the meeting at Pineville this morning. Election of a corresponding secretary was scheduled for this afternoon, there being three nominees for the office.

Twenty Middlesboro women were present at the meeting at which the following organizations were represented: Barbourville, Harlan Civic League, Middlesboro Women's Club, Pineville Women's Club and the Williamsburg Women's Club. Reports from each of these organizations were submitted.

Mrs. Worsham presided at the meeting. A feature of the program at the morning session was an address by Mrs. Benjamin Bayless of Louisville, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, in which she outlined the work of the clubs for the coming year.

Delegates and visitors had luncheon at the Continental hotel at 1 o'clock.

BAKER APPOINTED TO SCHOOL BOARD

Will Fill Unexpired Term of Shelton—
Superintendent Makes Report to the Board

R. W. Baker was selected by the city educational board to fill the vacancy created by the removal of W. L. Shelton to another city. Petition for Mr. Baker's candidacy for the place in the coming election has already been filed. J. W. Bradner, superintendent of the city schools, made a report of the enrollment at the meeting. The total enrollment in the city schools is 2153, he stated. The white elementary schools have an average of 44 pupils per teacher and the elementary colored schools have an average of 33 per teacher.

Other matters, mainly of a routine nature, were discussed. All members of the board were present except J. T. Colgan, J. H. McGowan and W. S. Anderson.

A Statement

TO THE VOTERS OF MIDDLES-
BORO, BELL COUNTY, KEN-TUCKY:

As you already know, I was nominated, at the recent Primary, for City Commissioner, and I am a candidate for election in the regular election on November 6th, 1923, and deem it proper that before the election I should state to you my reasons for asking your support. If elected I shall endeavor to carry out the following policies, together with such other propositions as may come up from time to time.

FIRST: Having three children in the public schools in our city, I am naturally interested in good schools first, and it shall be my aim to handle the financial affairs of the city in such a way as to get enough money to keep our schools on the highest plane possible, and will try to economize in some other departments of the city government and give the schools more money to hire the very best teachers and number necessary to give all the children of our city the best opportunities for education. Also to build additions to our outlying school buildings in order to take care of the increasing population in those sections.

SECOND: I shall favor street improvement and build such ones serving the most people first, constructing them at the lowest cost possible, and to consult the property owners, through whose property said streets are to be built, and if possible build the kind of street that they want, and shall insist that same be kept in good repair, clean and sanitary. For this purpose I am in favor of setting aside all the money collected from automobile licenses—to be used in repairing and cleaning the streets.

THIRD: I am in favor of strict enforcement of all laws, both of the city and state, and shall insist on having a police force that will enforce the laws without fear or favor.

FOURTH: I believe that the public should be advised from time to time as to the financial affairs of the city, and shall be in favor of having a certified accountant audit the books of the city from time to time, and not less than every three months have a financial statement of the city's business published in the local papers showing all receipts and disbursements, having the same itemized and put in such form that the tax payer can see where every cent of his money is spent.

We have the best city in Southern Kentucky and my only object in becoming a candidate for this office was in the belief that with my past experience in business affairs that I could render some valuable service to our city.

I was born in Bell County, about eight miles North of Middlesboro, and have lived in Middlesboro and Bell County all my life, with the exception of some six or seven years, during which time I lived in Claiborne County, Tennessee, and it is my purpose to spend the balance of my life here in this city. For this reason, I am anxious to see the town grow bigger and better.

Having been reared an orphan, the education and property I possess have been acquired through my own efforts, and with the experience I have had since my father's death, when I was at the age of four, I feel I am in a position to be of some service to others who might become similarly situated. There are three other candidates

Battle of Davis and Davis
Looms as Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Firing one Davis by abolishing the title under which his job was held, and hiring another Davis to fill the same job under another title, promises to involve Secretary of Interior Hubert Work in an investigation which may become in the west, one of the important issues in the 1924 campaign.

Shortly after his transfer to the Interior Department, Work "discharged" Arthur P. Davis, director of the Reclamation Service, who for 10 years had been a government employee, rising from $720-a-year job as stenographer to head of the Reclamation Service at $7,500. The explanation was that what the service needed was not an engineer and reclamation expert, but a "business man."

Then it was discovered Davis could not be let out on such grounds. His civil service status protected him in his job except on proof of incompetency or unfaithfulness, and no such grounds existed. Work finally solved the question by having the office of director abolished and the new office of "commissioner of reclamation" created.

To this "commissionership" he appointed former Governor David W. Davis of Idaho, who admittedly wasn't a reclamation expert but who was said to be a competent "business man."

When friends of the former director protested at the procedure, a "fact finding commission" was appointed by Work to inquire into the needs of reclamation and the status of reclamation projects.

Hardly had the work of this commission got under way when the directors of the Society of Civil Engineers filed a vigorous protest against the change from Director Arthur Davis to Commissioner David Davis, charging that the whole maneuver was a subterfuge to put a competent engineer out and a politician in.

Republican Nominators' Supporters To Leave Here at 11:15 Monday
For Pineville Speaking

Elaborate plans are being made for the Dawson parade Monday, a grand march from Middlesboro to Pineville by his supporters, according to H. H. Hutcheson, republican chairman.

The automobiles will assemble at 11:45 o'clock Monday morning on Cumberland avenue from whence they will proceed to Pineville where Mr. Dawson will speak at the Gaines theater at 2 p. m., in the interest of his campaign. His friends will escort him back to Middlesboro for his speech here Monday night, the last speech he will make before the election.

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—Reports that former Crown Prince Frederick William, exiled in Holland since the war had returned to Germany are in circulation today, finding publicity through columns of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. An inquiry quickly brought out denials. It is regarded as possible, however, that he is permitted to return shortly and settle on his paper Solmsian estate at Hildes.

FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTER EXAMINATION AT PINEVILLE

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination to be held at Pineville on November 21, as a result of which is expected to make a certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth-class postmaster at Kettle Island and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interests of the service to fill any vacancy by re-instatement. The compensation at this office was $541 for the last fiscal year. For this office and I respectfully request that you investigate the records of each candidate and cast your ballot for the two that you believe will best serve the interests of our city, and I shall be entirely satisfied with your verdict.

In conclusion, I wish to state I am not the candidate of any faction, clique or organization, and if elected I shall render the best service possible to all our people regardless of sex, creed or color.

A Statement

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES
ADVOCATED BY H. R. GILES
Candidate for Commissioner for the City of Middlesboro, Kentucky:

1.—I favor equalizing the values of all property for taxing purposes as far as that can be done.

2.—I favor just treatment toward all citizens regardless of race, creed, or financial standing, and if elected shall endeavor to carry out this idea.

3.—I favor repairing the streets and cleaning them and strict use of economy in such work.

4.—I am positively opposed to the methods practiced by the present City Administration.

5.—I am in favor and if elected will see to the enforcement of all laws against all citizens alike regardless of whether they belong to a political machine or not, or in regard to whatever their wealth or standing may be, and I favor a complete change of those now in the administration of the City's affairs.

6.—If elected I will support and work in favor of an order to audit the books by a reliable certified accountant.

7.—In my judgment the Police Department is inefficient and is partial and unfair in the enforcement of the law—one class is allowed to be favored while others are unjustly treated. I oppose this method of unfair enforcement of the law.

8.—I am in favor of placing in office only those men who are efficient and honest. I am opposed to corruption of the ballot or the electorate.

9.—I am in favor of placing in office men who will co-operate with the County officials who are faithful and honest.

10.—I am unalterably opposed to the oppression of the poor and helpless.

11.—I believe in the principles of our Declaration of Independence that our Government should be a government of the people, by the people and for the people, instead of being a Government as it has been of election crooks, for election crooks and by election crooks.

12.—I am in favor of protecting the colored people and enforcing the law for their protection, and against them when they violate the law, the same way that it is enforced or should be enforced against white men.

13.—I now place you my word that I have made no promise and if elected to office will not be embarrassed in doing my full duty.

14.—I am strictly in favor of economy in running the City's administration.

15.—If elected I will favor the selection of policemen by all the Commissioners in open meeting.

16.—I oppose private meetings of individual members in the discharge of the City's affairs.

17.—I am in favor of exempting new factories for reasonable length of time that locate in our city and spend money therein.

18.—I now make my pledge to the public that I have made no promise to the lawless element.

19.—I am in favor of maintaining our schools and educating the youth of our city and employing high class teachers of the best character and standing.

20.—I endorse the platform of Mr. J. W. Allison and the Volstead Act. If these principles appeal to you I solicit your support for the office of City Commissioner and assure you I shall appreciate anything that you may do or say for me.

Respectfully yours,
H. R. GILES.

WOMAN TELLS OF
G. O. P. PROGRESS

Wife Panama Consul Speaks to Large
Assembly at Barbourville
Recently

Addressing a large audience of Knox County men and women at Barbourville, Mrs. Christine Bradley South, wife of the American minister to Panama, laid emphasis upon the Republican party's achievements in behalf of education in Kentucky.

Mrs. South said in part: "The Stanley administration provided for the common schools of Kentucky the sum of $15,285,000. This Republican administration provided $18,435,000. This Republican administration thought $15,285,000 more of the boys and girls in the common schools of Kentucky than the Stanley administration thought. This $3,150,000 sent 73,000 more girls and boys into the common schools than ever went there before in the history of Kentucky. Was money ever more wonderfully expended, was there ever an investment that equalled the golden grain of this? This golden interest will compound and compound throughout the years to come and will spell for Kentucky's future greatness and happiness.

"What more did this increased appropriation do for the cause of education in Kentucky? The Stanley administration paid to the teachers who taught your children the pitiful sum of $411 a year. I am thankful to say this Republican administration thought enough of the teachers of Kentucky to raise their yearly salary to $725 a year. This meant better teachers, better instruction for your boy and your girl. The Republican administration not only paid the teachers more, but it helped them become better teachers. It passed an annual appropriation of $70,000 a year to establish summer training schools for the teachers of all the common schools of this state took this summer training course. Again you reap the harvest, better teachers, better paid, better and more able to instruct your children.

"Under the Stanley administration there was enrolled in the high schools in this state in 1919, 20,000 pupils. In 1922 under the present Republican administration there were 32,000 enrollments in the high schools of Kentucky. Determined that this state should have more and more trained teachers, the Republican party has always been the advocate of the normal schools and their upbuilding. The Stanley administration gave these normal schools $277,000. This Republican administration gave $1,182,000. This Republican administration thought $905,000 more of the normal schools than the Stanley administration thought."

STATE AND COUNTY TAX OFFICE TO OPEN HERE

Pineville city taxes are delinquent, today, and hereafter, and just as Tip Tish close his tax period, Sheriff Martin Green begins to push his collection of state and county taxes. To make it as easy as possible on the days, he will open an office in the city hall at Middlesboro about November 12 with W. A. Bowman in charge, for the convenience of tax payers in the south end of the county. Collections in this end of the county will continue from the Pineville office, with Miss Mary Helton and Ike Vanhook as deputies in charge of the office.

To Finish All Other Side of Bridge,
Before Machine Is Moved

A concrete base has been made on three blocks of East Cumberland avenue, beginning at Tenth street and continuing westward. Grading around the park has also been completed for this distance.

The grading work of the street is completed for the entire distance, except for some small jobs for guttering. Concrete gutters have been made and asphalt will be spread one and one-half inches in thickness for the surface paving. Construction men say it will be nearly two weeks before this latter part of the work is done as the concrete must set for fourteen days before the surface is applied.

The work of making the concrete base will be continued until it is completed to the bridge. All of the street work will be done before the machinery is moved across the bridge.

The weather so far has been favorable for street work and so long as it does not rain or become extremely cold, the work will continue.

He said he was prepared to spend the balance of his life combating "forces tending to destroy our United States American tradition of government." He appealed for aid for Germany who he said was suffering for want of food, fuel and clothing. He declared hunger to the firebrand of revolution on the brink of which Germany and other European countries stand now.

"YES, WE HAVE NO BANANAS"
INAPPROPRIATE IN MEXICO

How "Yes, We Have No Bananas" became something more than a song in Elmore, Tabasco, Mexico, is told by P. E. Britte in a letter to the Daily News. He says, in part:

"I enjoyed reading your editorial on 'Yes, We Have No Bananas.' The song is quite popular here among the Americans as it ever was in the states. It has lately become a parody here due to the fact that a ship came here and loaded up with bananas then broke down with the result that the entire cargo—15,000 bunches—had to be unloaded and were given away in this small town. For a week we have seen nothing on the streets but puns carrying bananas. We even have a few bunches in our house."

Mr. Britte was formerly treasurer of the U. M. W. and for some time has been auditor for the American Petroleum company at Frontera, Mexico.

A THOUGHT

Whoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.—Matt. 23:12.

It is in vain to gather virtues without humanity; for the Spirit of God delighteth to dwell in the hearts of the humble.—Frasers.

CHOOSING OUR CITY COMMISSIONERS

Next Tuesday the voters of Middlesboro will select the men who are to manage the City affairs for the next two years. This is a cold blooded business proposition and not an affair of personal likes and dislikes. Let us select two men who have had experience in large affairs and who are competent to manage our City business in a wise and economical manner.

There are four names on the ballot and only two to be elected. All four of these men are good citizens, with nothing in their private life to disqualify them, but all four are not equally fitted for the important position of City Commissioner. Two of these men, Giles and Cooke, have never had the experience which should fit them for the positions which they are seeking.

Mr. Giles is a merchant operating a store in the out-kicks of the City and has been fairly successful in his business. He has also been a member of the Council for the past two years and has attended the Council meetings about as regularly as the other members. An examination of his record shows that he has never developed any constructive ideas or taken any active part in the affairs of the City, other than to vote yes or no on the various matters which have come before the meetings. His record does not show him to be a dominant outstanding man such as we need for a City Commissioner.

Mr. Cooke has been a salaried man all of his life and has been accustomed to have the man over him assume all the responsibility. His work has all been routine work with no responsibility. More than a year ago Mr. Cooke announced his intention of leaving a firm somewhere in Central Kentucky, upon the expiration of his term of office as Commissioner. To that end he offered all of his property here for sale and sold most of it. It is only reasonable to assume that he has no special interest in the progress and the growth of Middlesboro. It is a job at $75 per month which Mr. Cooke is looking for, and not a position of responsibility as City Commissioner.

Mr. Jacobs has had a number of years' experience in City affairs in various offices. He is familiar with the administration of the City's business and its needs. He is secretary and Treasurer of a large business, knows how and where to get economical; knows how to divide between petty matters and matters having a decided influence on the future; knows the mistakes which have been made in the past in our City official and how to guard against such mistakes in the future. The value of building a foundation during the next two years which the men who will be able to use in building Middlesboro a better place in which to live.

Mr. Manning is one of the foremost boosters of Middlesboro. There has never been a move for the betterment of our City in which he has not had an active part. He has been one of the most liberal givers of money and time for the upbuilding of the town. Mr. Manning has a vision of the future. He knows the possibilities of our location and how to use them to make Middlesboro one of the outstanding towns of this region. He is also a man accustomed to handling large matters in a wise and economical way. He knows how the affairs of our City should be administered to get the most for our money and where to get it to the best advantage for everybody. He has filled almost every office from Mayor down to Commissioner and it is only his desire to be Middlesboro mayor that has persuaded him to accept the office of elected.

Let Middlesboro take a warning from Knoxville's experience. After getting ahead over people in debt the people of Knoxville went on and paid the bills when they could not do so and the city and they elected them as an over-ambitious Mayor. Now one of the men who was elected in Knoxville is in jail and the other is in debt. Let Middlesboro take a warning from Knoxville's experience. THE SPIRIT OF EUROPE

What's the matter with Europe? That is one of the questions not frequently heard asked and less frequently answered. Now and then some one will say it is the spirit. It would be nearer the truth were it said, lack of spirit. It is the latter; the lack of heart relates the saying of Paul to the Corinthians, "the letter killeth, the spirit giveth life."

The Baltimore Manufacturers Record calls the attention of European countries to the situation in the American southern states at the close of the civil war. Hundreds of thousands of the Confederate soldiers were in their graves. The Confederate treasury notes were as worthless as are now the German marks.

In this connection the Manufacturers Record remarks: "The trouble with the heroic courage under overwhelming burdens, the never-say-die spirit which saved the south and redeemed it from direct poverty to great prosperity puts to shame the cringing whine of the German people, and at the same time suggests that Europe's way back to prosperity is over the same road of work and hope and faith and dauntless courage, over which the south traveled."

To that the Manufacturers Record adds: "Such a spirit will mean a thousand times more for Europe than anything which America could possibly do by moral force or finance to hasten the return of European prosperity. Every plan from Europe to help shape its governmental affairs, or to settle its purely European policies as well as every suggestion at home that America must do this, to save Europe from itself, is an insult to Europe's inherent qualities of ability to help itself. The less we built in on European affairs now the greater will be our service to Europe and to the world."

Europe must not assume the attitude of a mere beggar, Americans who would under any circumstances give encouragement to such a spirit as that are not other part of the world. The American people would not friends of either America or of Europe or of any people at returning prosperity in Europe, but such a return is not to be accomplished in any respect by anything in the shape of force, exerted here or over there.—The Journal and Tribune.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 7—MISTER NUT-FUDGE ALLIGATOR

The next place the Twins came to in Dixie Land was a muddy river. And there on the bank lay a queer-looking object, pointed at both ends. It was a nut-fudge, as long as a log, and as brown and lumpy as a nut-fudge. Besides, it was all marked off in little squares, just like a nut-fudge.

Nut was just going to say, "Hello, Mister Nut-fudge, who are you?" when suddenly one of Mister Fudge's pointed ends opened, showing two rows of white teeth like knives—only some of them were upside down.

At that minute the Twins spied a little brown furry creature not ten feet away from Mister Alligator's nose. The little creature was shivering and shaking like a bowl of lemon jelly, and his name was Roly Pol. Most but Mister Alligator laughed when he saw him pop out of a hole in the bank right in front of him.

"Hello," he called in a pleasant, uncertain way. "How are you, Roly?"

"I'm all right," stammered Roly. "That's fine!" laughed Mister Alligator. "How much do you weigh now?"

"About three hundred," answered Roly.

Oh well, the bright head batted. Remains a lovely thing to see. The nut's an ant, we can't deny, The bee a bee!

Berton Braley's Poem

AS NATURE INTENDED

The bee was meant to be a bee, Her industry is quite amazing; But since she cannot help it, she Deserves no praising.

The duties of the ant we view, She does her work and seems to love it, Just as Dame Nature meant her to. Well, then what of it?

We don't expect the bee or ant To specialize on grace or beauty. It is enough, we freely grant, To do their duty.

Yet some folks frown at butterflies, And solemnly point out that these are Improvident and far from wise As ants and bees are.

America's Favorite Songs

Old Folks At Home

"Old Folks At Home," has been described as probably the most widely known and beloved song ever written, aside from one or two national airs born of great crises. This is the estimate of Harold Vincent Milligan, biographer of Stephen C. Foster, the song's composer. It has been translated into every European language and into many Asiatic and African tongues.

Written in 1851, the first year of Foster's married life, the song reached high sales within a few years and the composer's royalties were more than $15,000. A big sum for a song in those days, but insignificant when compared with the $50,000 in royalties brought by the first sale alone of copies of "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Name Changed
The first draft of the song was entitled "Way Down Upon the Old Plantation" and it sang of the Pedee River instead of the Swannee. Foster doubted the suitability of the word "Pedee" and asked his brother, Morrison Foster, to suggest a two-syllable name for a southern river. Morrison suggested Yazoo, but that was rejected as unmusical. Opening an atlas, the two brothers scanned the map of the United States. Finally they hit upon the Swannee, a little stream in Florida. Then Stephen Foster proceeded to immortalize a stream that he had never

"Tut, tut, tut!" exclaimed Mister Alligator. "That's not enough. You ought to weigh six pounds. I'll bet you do and you don't know it. Come here and let me hit you."

"Oh, no! I—e—couldn't!" uttered Roly. "My mamma couldn't hit me."

"She wouldn't hit?" snapped Mister Alligator, and he stopped laughing and began to do a little tad around like a carpet beetle.

Roly Pol began to run and this was exactly what Mister Alligator did not want. He was so big and heavy he couldn't go very fast himself.

"Look out, Roly," called Mister Alligator sharply. "What's that in front of you?"

"Where?" gasped the little musty rat, stopping suddenly.

"I'll show you said Mister Alligator, trotting to move along on his four fat legs as fast as well, soon as fast as a slow freight train. He would have had a hold of poor little Roly Pol in about four counts if the Twins hadn't grabbed the little musty rat and ran off with him to a place of safety.

"Goodby, Mister Nut-Fudge," called Nanny. "Next time pick somebody your own size."

"Tut!" snorted Mister Alligator in disgust.

Here I am, little Marquise, talking to you entirely of my disappointments in some phases of John's character when I started to tell you about meeting Sydney Carton again. Meeting Sydney Carton, however, was a part of this surprising knowledge that I really did not know John, and that here was a man who knew him better than himself, who possibly did not always approve of him but who accepted him just as he was as a friend whom he would help and care for even when he knew he was being used by John to further his own end.

After Jack hung up the telephone he turned to me and said, "At last, Leslie, old Syd has come to see us and you think because it is not proper to cuss before women."

Be careful with a man who is too glad to meet you. He will try to sell you something some day.

Game is the easiest thing on earth to find. All you have to do is go hunting without a gun.

Too much experience is enough. A man with a wild son in college should get it at wholesale rates.

You can't eat your cake and have it too, but you can't keep it and have it always fresh.

An optimist is a man buying new fly swatters in November.

A liar is a man who says he enjoys nearly freezing to death.

My Opportunity

My Opportunity! Dear Lord I do not ask
That thou shouldst give me some high work of thine.
Some noble calling or some wondrous task—
Give me a little hand to hold in mine.

I do not ask that I should ever stand
Among the wise, the worthy, or the great;
I only ask that, softly, hand in hand,
A child and I may enter at thy gate.

Give me a little child to point the way
Over the strange, sweet path that leads to thee;
Give me a little voice to teach to pray;
Give me two shining eyes thy face to see.

The only crown I ask dear Lord, to wear.
Is this—that I may teach a little child

How beautiful, O how divinely fair
Is thy dear face so loving, sweet and mild!
I do not need to ask for more than this.
My Opportunity! 'Tis standing at my door.
What sorrow is this blessing I should miss!
A little child! Why should I ask for more?

CITIES FIGHT THE DRUNKEN DRIVER AS AUTO TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

The death knell is sounding for the drunken driver. Appalled by the ever-increasing toll of traffic deaths, judges throughout America are bending their efforts toward curbing the practice of driving while intoxicated, which today looms as the greatest single factor in America's street slaughter, according to a survey made recently.

Despite the adoption throughout the country of traffic regulations of almost every degree, it has been impossible to eliminate the intoxicated driver. And the natural increase in traffic congestion has given him a bigger mark to shoot at in his will to fare.

A "Red Murderer"

The drunken driver has been termed by sober-minded jurists "the most deadly man alive"—a virtual red murderer running rampant.

So his punishment is to be severer than ever. This, it is hoped, will make the streets safe for law-abiding motorists and pedestrians.

Some judges regard a jail term as the only effective cure; others believe in combining drastic punishment with wide-spread publicity.

In certain cities every drunken driver is examined by a psychiatrist in jail sentence the only proper one for

Jail Sentences

In Massachusetts the law now provides a fine of from $50 to $200 for the first offense, or a jail sentence of from one month to a year. For second offenses a jail term is mandatory, a year's sentence being not infrequently inflicted the maximum sentence.

Judge C. C. Dalton of Seattle always inflicts the maximum sentence, 30 days in jail, $500 fine and revocation of the motorist's license.

"If the laws allowed me," he says, "I would put a large red cross on the door of the drunken driver's automobile. For the second offense I would add a skull and cross-bones. For the third offense I would revoke his driver's license for life, for a drunken motorist is more dangerous to life and property than a man with a gun."

State Offense

In Missouri it is a state offense to drive while intoxicated. Circuit court trials often result in long jail sentences.

Judge Charles A. Oberwager of the New York traffic court believes the an intoxicated driver.

JUDGE MEREDITH YEATMAN OF CINCINNATI'S MUNICIPAL COURT GIVING AN OBJECT LESSON TO TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATORS.

"If a man comes before me a second time," he says, "I give him the limit and revoke his license. First offenders usually get 60 to 90 days. A second offender gets as much as a year."

In two months, Judge Henry M. Walker, Chicago, sent 25 drivers to a psychopathic hospital for examination. Nineteen of them, he declares, are in insane asylums now.

The sensible prevention, Judge Walker holds, is to require a license of every person who drives, applicants being compelled to prove not only their skill but character, physical strength and mentality.

Lively Stable Laws

"Automobile traffic regulations," he says, "still savor of the lively stable. Penalties which were adequate to deal with horse and buggy traffic are outgrown."

Judge John F. Haas, another Chicago jurist, notes out justice to traffic offenders with Dr. David J. Jones, city physician, sitting at his elbow.

To church every Sunday for a year was the requirement Judge Haas made after consulting Dr. Jones in a recent case of a drunken driver. The man was told to report every month to the probation officer with a certificate showing regular attendance. He also was assigned to the water wagon and fined $150 and costs.

In St. Louis, Judge George B. Mix established a school in his court. If a prisoner admitted knowing the law, he was given the maximum sentence. If he pleaded ignorance, he was forced to sit between two policemen in court while he memorized the traffic code from cover to cover.

Visits to Morgues

In other cities, the judges have found an effective cure by taking speeders and drunken drivers to hospitals and morgues and showing the offenders the mutilated victims of their lawlessness. Notable examples of this occurred in Omaha, Neb., under direction of Judge Wappich and in Detroit under Judge Bartlett.

In Cleveland, to drive while intoxicated is to flirt with a stiff jail sentence. There, also, judges have sent prisoners to the morgue to gaze at the bodies of traffic victims.

Magistrate J. Ralph Park of Pittsburgh contends practically half of all the accidents that come before his traffic court are due to the use of liquor.

Few Repeaters

In Pennsylvania, to drive while drunk is a crime beyond the jurisdiction of a police judge. Magistrate Park, since the opening of traffic court a year ago, has held more than 300 persons under $1,000 bail each for the higher court.

Judge Lewis H. Ward of San Francisco asserts that consistency in sending intoxicated drivers to jail is the best method of lessening this evil. Every drunken driver found guilty in his court serves at least six months in jail.

And so it goes. Gradually punishment for this offense is tightening up. Because of the comparatively few "repeaters" that face them, now that more drastic penalties are being meted out, the judges believe there is hope that the practice eventually will be stopped.

Casseroles

Do you realize and make use of the economy and convenience of your casseroles and baking dishes?

In choosing a casserole be sure that the cover fits tightly and has a large enough knob on top to enable you to get a firm hold without danger of burns.

A reasonable amount of thought should be used in the handling of casseroles. They should not be subjected to too great and sudden changes of temperature. For instance, when removing a casserole from the oven it's hardly advisable to put it in a cold sink to cool. Nor should it be placed directly over a gas flame to quickly melt fat or butter.

If you would serve creamed onions with your roast, cook them in a glass casserole that goes straight from the oven to the table.

Onions en Casserole

Sixteen small silver-skinned onions, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Peel onions under cold water. Drop in boiling water and boil 15 minutes. Drain and put in a well-buttered casserole. Melt butter, stir in flour, slowly add milk, stirring constantly, season with salt and pepper and cook until thick and smooth. Pour over onions, cover and bake 30 to 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

You will like this dish better than the cream onions cooked over the fire and you will like serving them without making the sauce at the last minute.

Round Steak en Casserole

Trim steak and cut in pieces for serving. Roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry brown in hot fat first on one side and then on the other. Remove to casserole. Make a brown gravy in the pan in which the steak was browned. Pour gravy over meat and cook in a moderate oven for 45 minutes.

To make a brown gravy—Add one tablespoon flour to one tablespoon fat. Stir and cook until flour browns. Then slowly add one cup water, stirring constantly and cook until thick and smooth. If more gravy is needed increase the amount of ingredients proportionally.

Ham en Casserole

Four potatoes, 2 onions, slice ham cut 1-2 inches thick, ginger, mustard, pepper.

Paré potatoes and slice very thin. Put in casserole. There should be enough potato to more than half fill the dish. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Add onions peeled and cut in very thin slices. Season with pepper. Let stand in water for an hour. Drain and put on onions. Sprinkle with a tiny pinch of ginger and mustard. Cover and bake one and one-half hours in a moderate oven.

"Poor Man's Pudding" is an old-time dish that was cooked in the oven.

Poor Man's Pudding

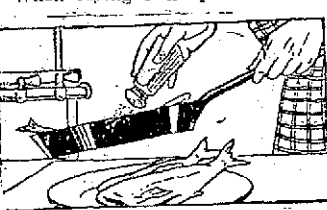

Four cups milk, 1-2 cup rice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter.

Put cold ingredients into a buttered casserole and put into the oven. Stir often while the rice is swelling. When mixture reaches the boiling point reduce the heat and cook slowly for two hours. The pudding should be smooth and creamy when done and should be removed immediately from the oven as too long cooking will make it watery. Serve warm or cold with sugar and cream.

Frying Fish

When frying fish sprinkle a little salt in the fat. This gives the fish a better flavor.

To Set Jelly

When jelly will not set, sometimes the juice of a lemon or a little white vinegar will remedy the difficulty.

and stained, rub them with a cloth dipped in vinegar.

Your Health

Industrial Health

Industrial health as carried out by the great steel mills of the country has resulted in great good to the community as a whole. Father, mother and the children are rapidly becoming educated in the means of prevention which aid so much in lessening the expenses of the family by preventing sickness and disease. In fact, it is this concerted action that is rapidly causing the death rate to decrease in many of our great industrial centers.

Father gets his help and instruction at the plant. The company physician, aided by competent assistants and well equipped hospitals, is looking after his welfare at all times.

The children get their help, in the schools, by health talks of both the physician and the visiting nurse.

Mother can run over to the day nursery to receive any aid necessary for baby's comfort. At any and all times, the company visiting nurse is at the family's disposal.

Service is rendered to all workers irrespective of whether he has been injured in the works or has some disease or ailment, real or imaginary. So long as he is on the job, the mill service is his for the asking. It would seem that the family has at least a fair chance to be free from sickness, under these conditions.

In addition to this, the workers are carefully protected by all applicants for work undergoing a thorough physical examination. This prevents any spread of disease or contagion.

The real prevention which this industrial health program has brought about is the lessening in the disease of the community as a whole. Men are willing to co-operate and give their support to something they understand by personal contact will conserve their working power and aid their family. Industrial health is a success.

LABOR'S STAMP OF APPROVAL ON CHAS. I. DAWSON

UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA

VAN A. BITTNER

International Representative

MR. GEORGE ROGERS, Sec.,
Local Union No. 3251,
United Mine Workers of America,
Kettle Island, Ky.

Crafton, Pa.
October 24, 1923.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER:—

Your kind favor of recent date making inquiry as to who the United Mine Workers of America should support for Governor of Kentucky in the coming election received.

In response desire to say that it is the policy of organized labor to reward our friends and defeat our enemies. During the campaign of organization in the mining fields of Southeastern Kentucky, in 1917, Mr. Dawson wholeheartedly did everything he could to assist our union. He did this at a time when our organization really needed friends.

As Attorney General of Kentucky, as Mr. Turnblazer, who is now President of District Nineteen, can verify, we always found Mr. Dawson ready and willing to assist us in every way possible. Mr. White Moss, who was as State Senator, is as good a friend as labor ever had in the legislative halls of any State, is actively supporting Mr. Dawson for Governor.

Congressman J. M. Robison, who is a real friend of the miners' union, is also supporting Mr. Dawson for Governor.

In conclusion, allow me to say again that Mr. Dawson has always proven himself to be a real friend of the United Mine Workers of America. During my term of office in District Nineteen, he did everything humanly possible to assist me in promoting the welfare of the miners, their wives and children and I feel that the membership of our Union should avail themselves of the opportunity of supporting Mr. Dawson for Governor, as I know he will continue to render us every honorable service. THE MINE WORKERS OF THAT PART OF DISTRICT NINETEEN LOCATED IN KENTUCKY WILL CERTAINLY RENDER LABOR A REAL SERVICE IN VOTING FOR AND ELECTING CHARLES DAWSON GOVERNOR.

Trusting this is satisfactory and assuring you of my highest personal regards, I am,

Very respectfully,
VAN A. BITTNER
